My homeschool student loved making this alphabet craft book while helping her learn her letters and letter sounds. Once completed this made a great keepsake for her preschool year. I have recommended this book to all of my friends! Thanks for this resource. – Monica B.

These are perfect for my letter of the week! Once I've introduced the letter, I hang these from the ceiling as a visual. – Susan Henderson

Special education teacher here- I initially used this as a fun activity for my kindergarten students who were beginning to learn about the alphabet. My 2nd grade students who know all of the letters and letter sounds begged to do these letter crafts in their free time!! We all had an absolute blast making the letter crafts! Thank you for this amazing resource <3

My daughter absolutely loves working on these! She loves practicing cutting out the shapes, putting it together, and gluing it to the base page. She even enjoys the practice tracing. I use it every day to "quiz" her on the letters that we've learned so far. They hang in our kitchen and are a fun touch to our day! – Sam B.

WHAT TEACHERS ARE SAYING:

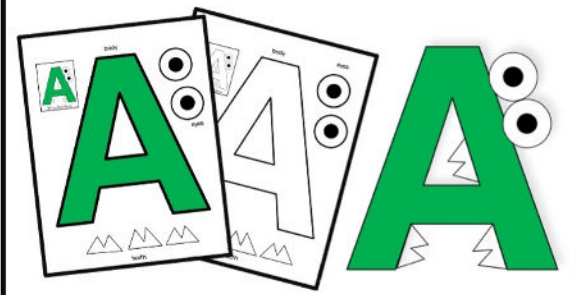

My students loved using this resource in their alphabet journals. I had all the materials prepped ahead of time, so each student received a baggy with everything needed. They loved seeing how each letter could be shown as something else. Each letter was paired with a poem on the opposite page of the journal, so I was able to extend the activity by having the students identify and highlight wherever they saw the letter. I purchased a Silhouette Cameo4 and it made prep so much easier! -
Lindsay Q.

We use this every single week at our writing center to help practice each letter for our letter of the week! This unit is amazing!
- Katy Keshwer

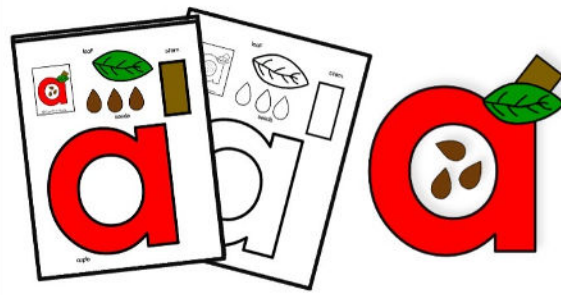

I was so excited to find this resource and willing to pay for it after discovering all the pieces were on one page to print. No templates to copy onto a bunch of different colored paper. This activity helps letter recognition, fine motor and following directions. My students love creating fun animals and their own letter character. I would 10/10 recommend to other kinder teachers. - Erica R.
